Good - bye, lit-tle girl in Dix - ie, I am com - ing back to you,
Good - bye, lit-tle girl in Dix - ie, But it's not fare - well for long,

And when I re-turn I'll find you wait - ing, For I know you are ev - er true;
Ev - 'ry day my heart in time is beat - ing, To the strains of a sum - mer song;

Oh! it's hard to part when an ach - ing heart, Is for bid' to breathe a sigh,
For it's fine to know That the long a - go, Will re - turn to the tran - quil sky,

And where'er I stray I'll re - call that day, And your face as you said "Good - bye!"
Where your word will be As you turn to me, One of welcome and not "Good - bye!"

Chorus (Strict March Tempo)

On her lips was a smile when I kissed her, In her eye was the glint of a tear; And it's ma - ny a day Since I went my way, From the girl than all oth-ers more dear. And in mem-o-ry still she is near me, As I jour-ney each long wea-ry mile, For each sun-beam that gleams, Is so fair that it seems, Just an ech - o of her smile. On her smile.
