The bluebells ring in the bracken,
The heather bells on the hill;
The gorse is yellow, the sunlight mellow
With music of wind and rill.
Ah! With music of wind and rill.

Afar the mountains are rising,
High Snowdon and all his knights;
For some fair tourney with clouds that journey
Up from the sea's blue lights.
Ah! Up from the sea's blue lights.

O winds, O water, O mountains—
O earth, with your singing sod,
I'm glad of the weather, that brings together,
My heart and the heart of God.
Ah! My heart and the heart of God.
