GENERAL PREFACE

The Carl Nielsen Edition is an independent project under the auspices of the Music Department of the Royal Library, launched in 1994 on the initiative of the Ministry of Culture and funded by the Ministry and the foundation Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat, with further financial support for the publication of the individual volumes from a number of other private foundations.

The edition is for both practical and scholarly use, and is based on critical editorial principles. It comprises all Nielsen's finished works and completed individual pieces, and seeks as far as possible to reflect the works in the version last sanctioned by the composer. In cases where songs exist in several different arrangements by Nielsen, all the versions are published.

Each work is furnished with an introduction which gives a brief account of the genesis of the work and its place in the composer's oeuvre, and a Critical Commentary including source description, editorial emendations and additions, and important alternative readings. The editorial material is published together with the music.

The edition is divided into the three main series Stage Music, Instrumental Music and Vocal Music, each further divided into volumes; within each genre the works are ordered chronologically.

Series I, Stage Music

- Operas
- Incidental music

Series II, Instrumental Music

- Symphonies
- Other orchestral works
- Concertos
- Chamber music
- Piano and organ works

Carl Nielsen Udgaven er et selvstændigt projekt under Det Kongelige Biblioteks Musikafdeling, iværksat i 1994 på Kulturministeriets foranledning og finansieret af Kulturministeriet og Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat, hvortil kommer støtte fra en række private fonde til udgivelse af de enkelte bind.

Udgaven er til såvel praktisk som videnskabelig brug, tilrettelagt efter kritisk-videnskabelige udgivelsesprincipper. Den omfatter samtlige Carl Nielsens afsluttede værker og enkeltsatser og søger i videst mulige omfang at afspejle værkerne i den af komponisten senest sanktionerede version. I tilfælde, hvor sange foreligger i flere forskellige arrangementer fra Carl Nielsens hånd, udgives alle versioner.

Hvert værk er forsynet med en indledning, der kort beskriver værkets tilblivelseshistorie og placerer det i den samlede produktion, samt en kritisk beretning, hvor der redegøres for kildesituationen, redaktionelle ændringer og tilføjelser og vigtige varianter. Den kritiske beretning udgives sammen med noteteksten.

Udgaven er opdelt i hovedserierne Scenemusik, Instrumentalmusik og Vokalmusik med tilhørende opdeling i enkeltbind; inden for hver genre er værkerne ordnet kronologisk.

Serie I, Scenemusik

- Operaer
- Skuespilmusik

Serie II, Instrumentalmusik

- Symfonier
- Andre orkesterværker
- Koncerter
- Kammermusik
- Klaver- og orgelværker

Series III, Vocal Music

Cantatas
Songs and recitations with piano
Songs without accompaniment
Choral Pieces
Songs arranged for vocal soloists and orchestra

Series IV, Juvenilia et Addenda

Editorial principles

The music is reproduced with no typographical indications of editorial additions or emendations. These are documented in the Critical Commentary. Typography, score disposition, genre names, and instrument names have been normalized in accordance with present-day practice. With a few exceptions, discussed in more detail in the Critical Commentary, the many additions and changes in Nielsen's works that have been made by friends and colleagues have been removed.

Articulation, dynamics, ties and slurs, execution markings and playing instructions have been normalized on the basis of analogies between clearly parallel passages. All such completions are documented in the Critical Commentary. Obvious writing and printing errors have been tacitly corrected.

Nielsen often notated horns and trumpets with key signatures. This practice has been normalized to a notation exclusively using accidentals.

"Muta in" in connection with the retuning of timpani and changes between two instruments (for example clarinet in A and B<sup>b</sup>) have been tacitly normalized. This also applies to the combination of ties and slurs.

In Nielsen's manuscripts the dynamic markings are sometimes rather carelessly placed, and this is also reflected in the early printed editions. This has been tacitly adjusted. The same goes for missing punctuation in Nielsen's texts.

Clefs are normally given as in the main source.

Redaktionelle principper

Nodeteksten gengives uden typografisk markering af redaktionelle tilføjelser eller ændringer. Disse er dokumenteret i den kritiske beretning. Typografi, partituropstilling, instrument- og genrebetegnelser er normaliseret efter nutidig praksis. Med enkelte undtagelser, som der er gjort nærmere rede for i den kritiske beretning, er de mange tilføjelser og ændringer i Carl Niensens værker, der er foretaget af venner og kolleger, fjernet.

Nodeteksten er normaliseret med hensyn til artikulation, dynamik, buer, foredragsbetegnelser og spilletekniske anvisninger således, at der er analogi mellem entydige parallelsteder. Alle sådanne kompletteringer dokumenteres i den kritiske beretning. Oplagte skrive- og trykfejl er stiltiende rettet.

Carl Nielsen noterede ofte horn og trompeter med faste fortegn. Denne praksis er normaliseret til notation udelukkende med løse fortegn.

"Muta in" i forbindelse med omstemning af pauker og skift mellem to instrumenter (f.eks. klarinet i A og B<sup>b</sup>) er stiltiende normaliseret. Det samme gælder kombinationen af buer og bindebuer.

I Carl Niensens manuskripter er de dynamiske angivelser undertiden placeret noget skødesløst, hvilket afspejler sig i de tidlige trykte udgaver. Dette er stiltiende justeret. Ligeledes er manglende, nødvendig tegnsætning i Carl Niensens tekster stiltiende tilføjet.

Nøgler gengives normalt som i hovedkilden.

FORORD

PREFACE

Carl Nielsen wrote music for no fewer than 22 plays performed in six different theatres, spread over a period of more than 40 years – from the earliest, An Evening at Giske from 1889-90, to the last, Grundtvig Easter Evening, performed less than six months before the death of the composer. So apart from the operas and symphonies, the theatre music is the genre that is most amply represented in Nielsen's overall oeuvre, and among the works are a couple of his most voluminous scores (Aladdin and Sir Oluf He Rides–). In the present edition the theatre music has been published in four volumes in series I: volume 6, comprising the early works up to 1918; vol. 7, Sir Oluf He Rides–; vol. 8, Aladdin; and vol. 9, the theatre music from the 1920s up to the death of the composer.

With nine works, The Royal Theatre in Copenhagen is the theatre to which Nielsen most frequently contributed stage music.<sup>1</sup> He knew the Theatre from the inside for better or worse, and his various relations with it were at times somewhat strained. In the years 1889-1905 he was employed as a second violinist in the Royal Orchestra, and between 1908 and 1914 as a conductor, after deputizing in this capacity for a short period around 1904-1905. He had to resign both these posts as a result of dissatisfaction with management decisions, and in 1919, in connection with the staging of Aladdin, he engaged in a public polemic on the role of the music in the performance.<sup>2</sup>

Three of the works were written for performance at the Open Air Theatre in Jægersborg Royal Deer Park north of Copenhagen.<sup>3</sup> The establishment of an open air theatre in Denmark had been inspired by similar theatres in Germany and France, where the actor Adam Poulsen<sup>4</sup> and the poet Lauritz Christian Nielsen,<sup>5</sup> independently of each other, had attended

Carl Nielsen skrev musik til ikke færre end 22 skuespil, opført på seks forskellige teatre, fordelt over en periode på mere end 40 år – fra det tidligste, En aften på Giske fra 1889-90, til det sidste, Grundtvig-Paaske-Aften, opført mindre end et halvt år før komponistens død. Når der ses bort fra operaerne og symfonierne, er skuespilmusik således den genre, der er fyldigst repræsenteret i Carl Niensens samlede produktion, og blandt værkerne findes et par af hans allermest omfangsrige partiturer (Aladdin og Hr. Oluf han rider–). Skuespilmusikken er i nærværende udgave gengivet i fire bind i Serie I, henholdsvis bind 6 omfattende de tidlige værker frem til 1918, bd. 7 Hr. Oluf han rider–, bd. 8 Aladdin og bd. 9 skuespilmusikken fra 1920'erne frem til komponisten død.

Med ni værker er Det Kongelige Teater i København det teater, til hvilket Carl Nielsen hyppigst bidrog med musik til skuespil.<sup>1</sup> Han kendte teatret indefra på godt og ondt og havde i sine forskellige relationer undertiden et noget anstrengt forhold til det. I årene 1889-1905 var han ansat som 2. violinist i Det Kongelige Kapel og mellem 1908 og 1914 som kapelmester efter i en kortere periode omkring 1904-1905 at have vikarieret som sådan. Begge de nævnte faste stillinger måtte han opsigte på grund af utilfredshed med ledelsens dispositioner, ligesom han i 1919, i forbindelse med opsætningen af Aladdin, førte en offentlig polemik omkring musikkens rolle i forestillingen.<sup>2</sup>

Tre af værkerne er skrevet til opførelse på Friluftsteatret i Jægersborg Dyrehave nord for København.<sup>3</sup> Etableringen af et friluftsteater i Danmark var sket under inspiration fra tilsvarende teatre i Tyskland og Frankrig, hvor skuespilleren Adam Poulsen<sup>4</sup> og digteren Lauritz Christian Nielsen<sup>5</sup> uafhængigt af hinanden begge havde overværet sådanne forestillinger i such performances in the summer of 1909. The same autumn they drew up plans for the establishment of a similar institution in the Copenhagen area. They realized that the positive involvement of the press was necessary, so the editor of Politiken, Henrik Cavling,<sup>6</sup> was drawn into the plans at an early stage. In the spring of 1910 a committee was formed to be responsible for the running of the theatre; Nielsen became a member and was most active in the dramatic sub-committee.<sup>7</sup> Any profits from the performances were to be spent to “send Copenhagen council schoolchildren to holiday camps or for related purposes”.<sup>8</sup>

The area Ulvedalene in the Royal Deer Park was well suited, since it was surrounded on three sides by forest, and on one side consisted of a high, broad slope that was laid out for the audience (with space for almost 4.000 people), all landscaped by the artist J.F. Willumsen.<sup>9</sup> Several of the city's theatres also offered their services by lending costumes and props. In practice the theatre had neither walls nor curtain. The landscape was used as the scenic and acoustic backdrop, and presumably because of the special acoustic conditions Nielsen composed the music for the open-air performances for wind orchestra, whose sound penetrates better than that of string instruments when there are no walls and doors.

The Dagmar Theatre too occupies a prominent place in Nielsen's theatrical output: in the years 1890-1908 he composed music for five of the theatre's productions.<sup>10</sup> This theatre was built in 1883 as Copenhagen's third private theatre – the other so-called ‘second theatres’ were Casino and The Folke-teatret – and existed until 1937. From 1889 on it succeeded in being a serious competitor to the Royal Theatre, inasmuch as at this time there was an easing of the restrictions that had hitherto limited the repertoire of the private theatres to popular comedies and operettas.<sup>11</sup> This more serious repertoire policy is reflected clearly in the productions for which Nielsen wrote music.

7 The other members were Professor Vilhelm Andersen, the ballet-master Hans Beck, the editors Blangstrup and Henrik Cavling, the chairman of the Union of Journalists Kristian Dahl, the painter Bertha Dorph, the painter N.V. Dorph, the chairman of the Journalists' Association Franz V. Jessen, the theatre director Johannes Nielsen, the writer L.C. Nielsen, Consul P. Nørgaard, the actor Adam Poulsen, the actor Johannes Ring, the lawyer Werner and the painter J.F. Willumsen – cf. Beretning om Friluftsteatret i Ulvedalene 1910, Copenhagen 1910.

sommeren 1909. Samme efterår lagde de planer for oprettelsen af en tilsvarende institution i Københavnsområdet. De indså, at det var nødvendigt med pressens positive medvirken, så Politikens redaktør Henrik Cavling<sup>6</sup> blev tidligt involveret i planerne. I foråret 1910 nedsattes en komité, der stod for driften af teatret, hvor Carl Nielsen blev medlem og især lagde sit virke i komitéens dramatiske udvalg.<sup>7</sup> Et eventuelt overskud fra forestillingerne skulle anvendes til “Anbringelse af kjøbenhavnske Kommuneskolebørn i Feriekolonier eller dermed beslægtede Formaal.”<sup>8</sup>

Ulvedalene i Dyrehaven var velegnet, da de på tre sider var omringet af skov, og på den ene side bestod af en høj, bred skråning, som blev indrettet til publikum (med plads til hen mod 4.000 personer), alt sammen udtænkt af billedkunstneren J.F. Willumsen.<sup>9</sup> Flere af byens teatre stillede sig desuden til rådighed med udlån af kostumer og rekvisitter. Teatret var i praksis uden mure og scenetæppe. Man benyttede naturen som kulisse og klangbund, og formentlig på grund af de særlige akustiske forhold komponerede Carl Nielsen musikken til friluftsforestillingerne for blæserorkester, der bedre end strygerinstrumenter kan klinge igennem uden døre.

Også Dagmar-teatret indtager en fremtrædende plads i Carl Niensens skuespilproduktion, idet han i årene 1890 til 1908 komponerede musik til fem af teatrets opsætninger.<sup>10</sup> Dette teater blev opført i 1883 som Københavns tredje privat-teater – de øvrige, såkaldte ‘Sekondteatre’ udgjordes af Casino og Folketeatret – og eksisterede frem til 1937. Fra 1889 gjorde det sig gældende som en seriøs konkurrent til Det Kongelige Teater, idet der på dette tidspunkt indtrådte en lempelse i de restriktioner, som indtil da havde begrænset privatteatrenes repertoire til overvejende at omfatte folkekomedier og operetter.<sup>11</sup> Denne mere seriøse repertoirepolitik afspejles tydeligt i de forestillinger, som Carl Nielsen skrev musik til.

The other theatres for which Nielsen wrote stage music were the Aarhus Theatre,<sup>12</sup> The Folk Theatre in Copenhagen,<sup>13</sup> and the Odense Theatre,<sup>14</sup> to which we can add the performance of the Prologue to Shakespeare on the Kronborg Castle hills in 1916.

The works in this volume have been distributed among the three editors as follows:

Lisbeth Ahlgren Jensen: Tove, Willemoes, Parents, The Wolf's Son and Midsummer Eve Play.

Kirsten Flensburg Petersen: Prologue to Shakespeare, Hagbarth and Signe, Native Land and The Liar.

Niels Bo Foltmann: An Evening at Giske, Snefrid, The Fights in Stefan Borg's House and Atalanta

MUSIC FOR ANDREAS MUNCH'S
PLAY AN EVENING AT GISKE

Nielsen's Prelude and Final Chorus for Andreas Munch's<sup>15</sup> one-act An Evening at Giske were probably composed around New Year 1889-1890, but the further circumstances of their genesis remain obscure. It can be established, however, that this period was marked by great events both in Nielsen's private life and in his musical career. In September 1889 he had been engaged as a violinist in the Royal Orchestra, and the same autumn he had applied for and been awarded the grant Det Anckerske Legat, which was to take him on his first major European journey over the next two years. Finally, it was in this period that his relationship with the sweetheart of his youth – the eight years younger Emilie Demant<sup>16</sup> – ended. Although no statement about the music for An Evening at Giske from the composer appears to have been preserved, it is not difficult to imagine how he might have come by this task. In the years 1889-1891 the close friend of Nielsen's youth and his fellow student at the Conservatory, Vilhelm Rosenberg,<sup>17</sup> was conductor at the Dagmar Theatre, and it seems highly likely that he hired Nielsen to write this music. It must have been 13 Willemoes (1908).

14 Cupid and the Poet (1930) and a revival of The Mother in 1921.

15 Norwegian poet and dramatist (1811-1884).

16 Danish author, artist, ethnologist (1873-1958).

17 Danish composer and conductor (1862-1944).

De øvrige teatre, til hvilke Carl Nielsen har skrevet skuespilmusik, omfatter Aarhus Teater,<sup>12</sup> Folketeatret i København,<sup>13</sup> Odense Teater,<sup>14</sup> hvortil kommer opførelsen af Shakespeare-prologen på Kronborg Slotsbanke i 1916.

Værkerne er i dette bind fordelt mellem de tre redaktører således:

Lisbeth Ahlgren Jensen: Tove, Willemoes, Forældre, Ulvens Søn og Sanct Hansaftenspil.

Kirsten Flensburg Petersen: Prolog til Shakespeare, Hagbarth og Signe, Fædreland og Løgneren.

Niels Bo Foltmann: En Aften paa Giske, Snefrid, Kampene i Stefan Borgs Hjem og Atalanta

MUSIC FOR ANDREAS MUNCH'S
SKUESPIL EN AFTEN PAA GISKE

Carl Niensens Forspil og Slutningskor til Andreas Munch's<sup>15</sup> énakter En Aften paa Giske er sandsynligvis komponeret omkring årsskiftet 1889-1890, men de nærmere omstændigheder omkring tilblivelsen fortøner sig i det uvisse. Det kan dog fastslås, at denne tid var præget af store begivenheder i såvel Carl Niensens privatliv som hans musikalske løbebane. I september 1889 var han blevet ansat som violinist i Det Kongelige Kapel, og samme efterår havde han søgt og modtaget Det Anckerske Legat, som i de følgende to år skulle føre ham ud på hans første store europarejse. Endelig var det netop i denne periode, at forholdet til hans ungdomskærlighed – den otte år yngre Emilie Demant<sup>16</sup> – afsluttedes. Skønt der tilsyneladende ikke er bevaret nogen udsagn om musikken til En Aften paa Giske fra komponistens side, er det ikke vanskeligt at forestille sig, hvordan han kan have fået denne opgave. I årene 1889-1891 var Carl Niensens nære ungdomsven og konservatoriekammerat, Vilhelm Rosenberg,<sup>17</sup> kapelmester ved Dagmar-teatret, og det synes oplagt, at han har hyret Carl Nielsen til at skrive denne musik. Det må have været et attraktivt tilbud for den

12 Ulvens Søn (1909) og Fra Rold til Rebild (1929) samt genoprettningen af Fædreland i 1916.

13 Willemoes (1908).

14 Amor og Digteren (1930) samt en genopførelse af Moderen i 1921.

15 Norsk lyriker og dramatiker (1811-1884).

16 Forfatter, kunstner, etnolog (1873-1958).

17 Komponist og kapelmester (1862-1944).

MUSIC FOR JEPPE AAKJÆR'S PLAY
THE WOLF'S SON

In 1909, for Jeppe Aakjær's<sup>82</sup> drama The Wolf's Son, Nielsen composed two songs, Old Anders Shepherd's Song and Come soon, ye Cottagers. Two years earlier he had set Aakjær's John the Roadman, which was to become one of his most popular songs, and in time a warm friendship developed between the composer and the writer. In 1918, for example he wrote to Aakjær:

"I cannot say how much I honour you as a Danish poet. I should actually write music for all your poems, for I always feel growth in myself when I work with them; my thoughts and feelings seem to become weightier and my talents richer".<sup>83</sup>

We have more evidence of Nielsen's liking for Aakjær in the form of a letter where he discusses the matter of the fee for the songs for The Wolf's Son:

"I cannot take less than 100 Kroner for a song with both piano and orchestral accompaniment; but, as I have said, I can give it away, and it would be a great pleasure to me if it was you personally who had the profit or benefit of it".<sup>84</sup>

The question of the fee for the songs had been raised because the director of the Aarhus Theatre, Jacob Jacobsen, had offered Nielsen half this amount. He had in fact, according to Jeppe Aakjær, received some other songs which he could apparently get at a slightly cheaper price:

"A local amateur whose father is on the board of the theatre has tossed off a couple of tunes. They are already finished and on the director's table; they are so pretty too, and that seems to play a predominant role at this theatre. [...] However, you must take for your melodies what best serves you; for I will insist that only your music is used in my play. I am surprised that in my absence negotiations have been started with others; for my approach to you was not only the choice of my own heart but also in full accordance with the wishes of the director"<sup>85</sup>

MUSIK TIL JEPPE AAKJÆR'S
SKUESPIL ULVENS SØN

Til Jeppe Aakjær's<sup>82</sup> drama Ulvens Søn komponerede Carl Nielsen i 1909 to sange, Gamle Anders Røgters Sang og Kommer I snart, I Husmænd. Han havde to år tidligere sat musik til Aakjær's Jens Vejmand, der skulle blive en af hans mest populære sange, og med tiden udviklede der sig et varmt venskab mellem komponisten og digteren. I 1918 skrev han således til Aakjær:

"Jeg kan ikke sige Dem hvor højt jeg ærer Dem som dansk Digter. Egentlig burde jeg skrive Musik til hele Deres lyriske Produktion, thi jeg føler altid en Grøde i mig naar jeg beskæftiger mig med Dem, mine Tanker og Følelser bliver ligesom vægtigere og mine Evner rigere."<sup>83</sup>

Et andet vidnesbyrd om Carl Niensens sympati for Aakjær har man i form af et brev, hvor han diskuterer honorarspørgsmålet for sangene til Ulvens Søn:

"En Sang baade med Klaver og Orkesterledsagelse kan jeg ikke tage mindre end 100 Kr. for; men jeg kan, som sagt, skænke den bort og det skulde være mig en stor Glæde ifald det var Dem personlig, som havde Indtægten eller Fordelen deraf."<sup>84</sup>

Spørgsmålet om honoreringen af sangene var blevet rejst, fordi direktøren for Aarhus Teater, Jacob Jacobsen, havde tilbudt Carl Nielsen det halve af dette beløb. Han havde nemlig, ifølge Jeppe Aakjær, modtaget nogle andre sange, som han åbenbart kunne få for en lidt billigere pris:

"En lokal Amatør, hvis Far sidder i Theaterbestyrelsen, har raspet et par Melodier af sig. De ligger allerede færdige paa Direktørbordet; de er saa smukke tillige, det synes at spille en overvejende Rolle ved dette Theater. [...] De skal imidlertid ta' for Deres Melodier, hvad De kan være tjent med; thi jeg vil insistere paa at kun Deres Musik bruges i mit Stykke. Jeg er forbauset over, at der i min Fraværelse er bleven indledt Underhandlinger med andre; thi min Henvendelse til Dem var ikke blot efter mit eget Hjertes Valg men tillige i den bedste Overensstemmelse med Direktørens Ønsker"<sup>85</sup>

85 Brev til Carl Nielsen, 6.11.1909 (DK-Kk, CNA, I.A.b.).

Aakjær thus preferred Nielsen as the composer of the songs in the play, and it was with his setting of the songs that it was performed.

The two songs were finished just a few days before The Wolf's Son was given its first performance at the Aarhus Theatre on 14th November 1909. Nielsen reported in a telegram to Aakjær<sup>86</sup> of 6th November that the songs were finished, but since the orchestral score is end-dated as late as 11th November 1909, he can only have meant the piano score; he had not yet started on the orchestration of the songs, which are accompanied by full orchestra and string orchestra respectively.

Judging from the account in Aarhus Stiftstidende the audience received the play with enthusiasm; but the newspaper reviewers were negative and complained over the harsh tone of the play:

"That the caustic lye was too strong, that the dialogue almost constantly overshoots the mark, and that the effect is at times rather too bold, that the play – although written by one of the finest poets of our time – is entirely devoid of poetry, indeed that it is actually a distortion of realism; all this probably only occurred to the enthusiasts of the evening later, once their enthusiasm had cooled and clarified".<sup>87</sup>

Of one of the musical numbers, Old Anders Shepherd's Song, the reviewer stated:

"The latter [an actor called Kreutz], who according to the programme played a 'shabby cowherd' had a little private success with his excellent depiction of the old worn-out fellow. But unfortunately in the last act they had put into his mouth – this cowed, faithful servant of his masters – a socialistic battle anthem, into the bargain in fine upper-class Danish. The result was completely absurd and should be changed".<sup>88</sup>

The Copenhagen paper Politiken also described the audience's positive reception of the play, but considered it more justified:

Aakjær ville altså foretrække Carl Nielsen som komponist til sangene i skuespillet, og det blev da også med hans udsættelse af sangene, det blev opført.

De to sange blev færdigkomponeret blot nogle få dage, før Ulvens Søn førsteopførtes på Aarhus Teater den 14. november 1909. Carl Nielsen meddelte i et telegram til Aakjær<sup>86</sup> den 6. november, at sangene var færdige, men da orkesterpartituret er slutdateret så sent som den 11. november 1909, kan det kun have været klaverpartituret, han mente; orkestreringen af sangene, der ledsages af hhv. fuldt orkester og strygeorkester, havde han endnu ikke taget fat på.

Efter beskrivelsen i Aarhus Stiftstidende at dømme modtog publikum skuespillet med begejstring; men dagbladsanmelderen var negativ og klagede over stykkets skarpe tone:

"At Luden er for skarp, at Replikkerne næsten stadig rammer over Maalet, og at Effekten til Tider er noget for ovovet, at Skuespillet – skønt skrevet af en af vor Tids ypperste Lyrikere – er fuldkomment blottet for Poesi, ja, at det egentlig er en Realismens Vanartning, det er rimeligvis først gaet op for Aftenens begejstrede senere, da Begejstringen blev kølnet og klaret".<sup>86</sup>

Om et af de musikalske indslag, Gamle Anders Røgters Sang, udtalte anmelderen:

"Den sidste [en skuespiller ved navn Kreutz], som ifølge Programmet spillede en 'afdanket Røgter' fik sig en lille privat Sukces for sin udmærkede Skildring af den gamle udslidte Fyr. Men desværre havde man i sidste Akt lagt ham – den kuede og herskabstro – en socialistisk Kampvise tilmed paa fint højdansk i Munden. Det virkede fuldkomment absurd og burde ændres".<sup>88</sup>

Københavnervisen Politiken skildrede også publikums positive modtagelse af skuespillet, men fandt den mere velbegrundet:

“A full house, among whom one saw many of the well known farmers of Jutland, received the play with loud applause and followed its plot with unabated interest from first to last. In dramatic terms the play far exceeds Aakjær’s earlier work. A number of excellently drawn figures of the peasantry give the play colour and life”.<sup>89</sup>

The same review says very briefly of the music: “Mr Fønss sang exceedingly prettily to a catchy and characteristic melody by Nielsen: ‘Come soon, ye Cottagers’.”

Aakjær’s social realist drama was performed at the Aarhus Theatre 14 times in the 1909-1910 season and was also played at some provincial theatres, but according to Aakjær’s memoirs, the play got:

“a vile press: social drama will always be given short shrift in a country that only loves the idyllic, and where a well-off upper class are the only people who can afford to buy theatre tickets”.<sup>90</sup>

Given these remarks on the dilemma between debating social issues from the stage and getting a paying audience to rally round the idea, it can come as no surprise that the play’s success was limited.

Later the same year Nielsen’s two songs from the play were sung with piano accompaniment by the concert singer Ellen Beck in an evening of songs. Politikens’ reviewer Charles Kjerulf wrote that the songs were a great success, but said at the same time that they were:

“also very easily accessible in all their simplicity, which was however taken so far that it almost became challenging. The refrain of one song was the wise and true words ‘For we tread one another down in the mire’”.<sup>91</sup>

The Wolf’s Son is in four acts and is set among farm labourers and the poor on a Jutland manor. The main character, Goj, who is the son of an outcast farm worker called Ulven (‘the Wolf’) has broken out of the wretched environment of his upbringing and sought his fortune in Australia, but has now returned

Om musikken hedder det ganske kort i samme anmeldelse: “Hr. Fønss sang overordentlig kønt til en iørefaldende og karakteristisk Melodi af Carl Nielsen: ‘Kommer I snart, I Husmænd’.”

Aakjær’s socialrealistiske drama blev opført på Aarhus Teater 14 gange i sæsonen 1909-1910 og blev desuden sat op på nogle provinsteatre, men ifølge Aakjær’s erindringer, fik skuespillet

“en led Presse: Det sociale Drama vil altid faa onde Kaar i et Land, der kun elsker Idyllen, og hvor en velstillet Overklasse er de eneste, der har Raad til at købe Teaterbilletter.”<sup>90</sup>

Med disse bemærkninger om dilemmaet mellem at debattere sociale spørgsmål fra scenen og at få et betalende publikum til at slutte op om idéen kan det ikke undre, at succes’en blev begrænset.

Senere samme år blev Carl Niensens to sange fra skuespillet sunget med klaverledsagelse af koncertsangerinden Ellen Beck ved en sangaften. Politikens anmelder Charles Kjerulf fastslog, at sangene gjorde megen lykke men udtalte samtidig, at de:

“ogsaa [var] meget let tilgængelige i al deres Enkelhed, der dog var saa vidtdreven, at den næsten blev fordringsfuld. Omkvædet paa den ene Vise var de kloge sandfærdige Ord: ‘For vi træder hverandre i Dyndet ned’”.<sup>91</sup>

Ulvens Søn er i fire akter og udspiller sig blandt daglejere og småkårsfolk på en jysk herregård. Hovedpersonen Goj, der er søn af en udstødt landarbejder kaldet Ulven, har brudt med sit usle opvækstmiljø og søgt lykken i Australien, men er nu vendt tilbage til hjemegnen for at gøre op med den sociale uretfærdighed. Den ene af sangene, Kommer I snart, I Husmænd! synges to his native region for a showdown with its social injustice. One of the songs, Come soon, ye Cottagers! is sung in Act Three at a protest meeting that Goj holds with the day labourers to get them to leave their humiliating life on the manor. He has bought land around a nearby peat bog and wants them to cultivate it collectively and thus begin a new, more dignified life in better conditions. The second song, Old Anders Shepherd's Song, is sung in the second section of Act Four by the old cowherd Anders, who sings it for the serving-girl Dorre. At the end of the play both the lord of the manor and Dorre die, since during the enactment of a wager an accident happens, caused by Goj's blind brother, who lost his sight as a child as a result of a shot accidentally fired by the lord.

Besides Nielsen's two songs Act One also has Dorre's Song, sung to a folk tune, and the blind farm labourer's song in the first part of Act Four, "Farvel mit elskte Fødeland", sung to an anonymous melody.<sup>92</sup>

Nielsen's two songs for The Wolf's son were published in a version for song and piano in 1909, while the original version for song and orchestra has only survived in manuscript.

The basis of the edition is the score, supplemented by the parts and in the case of the vocal parts by the piano scores (Sources C, D and E). Since the orchestral score has no complete text underlay the vocal part in Source E, which has Jeppe Aakjær's text inserted on a loose leaf, has been chosen as the main source for the text.

Lisbeth Ahlgren Jensen

<sup>92</sup> The melody, well known as a soldiers' and sailors' song, is included in the manuscript copy in Source B and is printed in among other places Danmarks Melodibog 2<sup>den</sup> Del. Copenhagen and Leipzig [n.d.].

i tredje akt ved et agitationsmøde, som Goj holder med daglejerne for at få dem til at forlade deres fornødrende tilværelse på herregården. Han har købt land op omkring en nærliggende tørvemose og vil have dem til at drive den kollektivt og dermed begynde en ny og værdigere tilværelse under bedre forhold. Den anden sang, Gamle Anders Røgters Sang, synges i fjerde akts anden afdeling og er lagt i munden på den gamle røgter Anders, der synger den for tjenestepigen Dorre. I slutningen af skuespillet dør såvel herremanden som Dorre, da der under et væddemål sker en ulykke, der bliver foranlediget af Gojs blinde bror. Denne har som barn mistet synet ved et vådeskud af herremanden.

Foruden Carl Niensens to sange forekommer i første akt Dorres Sang, der synges på en folkemelodi, og den blinde landarbejders sang i fjerde akts første afdeling "Farvel mit elskte Fødeland", der synges på en anonym melodi.<sup>92</sup>

Carl Niensens to sange til Ulvens Søn blev udgivet i en version for sang og klaver i 1909, mens den originale version for sang og orkester kun er overleveret i manuskript.

Til grund for udgaven er lagt partituret, der er kompletteret med stemmerne og for vokalstemmens vedkommende med klaverpartiturerne, (kilderne C, D og E). Da orkesterpartituret er uden fuldstændig tekstunderlægning er vokalstemmen i kilde E, der indeholder Jeppe Aakjær's tekst på et løst tekstblad, valgt som hovedkilde til teksten.

CRITICAL COMMENTARY

In the Critical Commentary the following conventions are used:

- 1 “by analogy with” is used when something has been “added”, “emended” or “omitted” by analogy with another passage in the main source. The analogy may be vertical. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more instruments, it is understood that the analogy is with the same place in the same bar(s). Or it may be horizontal. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more bars, it is understood that the analogy is with a parallel place in the same instrument(s).
- 2 “as in” is used when something is “added”, “emended” or “omitted” to correspond to the same place in another source.
- 3 “in accordance with” is used in cases where there is no authoritative source, only a guideline – for example printed part material.

In the bar number column, the symbol “+” is used to indicate an upbeat to the bar in question.

The only complete source is the Dagmar Theatre’s set of parts (A). In addition there are two vl. 1 parts for the prelude (B), probably copied from Source A, since the rehearsal letters in B are given from the beginning, while they are added in blue crayon in A. The provenance of Source B is unknown, and it is not clear whether B was part of a complete set of parts for the prelude or whether it only served as duplicate parts for Source A. In both A and B a cut (bb. 89-100) is marked in pencil suggesting that the two sources were at some point used at the same event.
