

WHERE THE SWEET MAGNOLIA GROWS
BALLAD,
Written, adapted & Inscribed
TO
MRS. ROSINA HOWARD
BY JOHN H. HEWITT.

BALTIMORE,

Published by F. D. BENTEN.

W. T. Mayo New Orleans.

25 Cts. Net.

"WHERE THE SWEET MAGNOLIA GROWS"

With expression.

PIANO

V. 2. When I took her li - ly hand Look - ing in her mild, blue eye;

Where the sweet Mag - - no - lia grows, Dwells a maid whom I love well;

With a blush and smile so bland, Thus she answer'd to my sigh.

Fresh in beau - ty, like the rose Blooming in the si - lent dell.

"When the year has pass'd a---way, Then I'll yield my hand to thee;"

Oft I sought her, oft we met 'Neath the proud Mag---no--lia tree;

Who the barb of death could stay? He hath ta'n my Eu---lo-die. &c.

Can I e'er those hours for--get— When I smiled with Eu---lo-die?

Refrain

Eu---lo-die is dead and gone, I am left to sigh a-lone;

Retard - - - - -

There's no joy in life for me, Par--ted from my Eu..lo-die!

CHORUS.

5

Air.

Eu-lo-die is dead and gone, I am left to sigh a--lone;

Alto.

Eu-lo-die is dead and gone, I am left to sigh a--lone;

Tenor.

Eu-lo-die is dead and gone, I am left to sigh a--lone;

Bass.

p

There's no joy in life for me, Par--ted from my Eu-lo-die!

There's no joy in life for me, Par--ted from my Eu-lo-die!

Retard.