LEGATO.

Where Hud - - - son's wave o'er sil - v'ry

sands

Winds thro' the hills a - - - far, crow-nest like a monarch stands, Crown'd with a single star! And there a-mid the billowy swells Of rockribb'd, cloud-capt earth My fair and gentle I-da dwells, A nymph of mountain birth. My fair and gentle I-da dwells A nymph of moun-tain birth. The snowflake that the cliff receives, The dia-----monds of the showr's Springs tender blossoms buds and leaves, The sis terhood of flowr's Morn's ear-ly beameve's balmy breeze Her pu-----ri-ty de-fine; But I-----da's dearer far than these To this fond breast of mine. But I...da's dearer far than these To this fond breast of mine.

Old

ALLEGRO.

Rallentando.

My heart is on the hills! The shades of night are on my brow: Ye pleasant haunts and silent glades, My soul is with you now! I bless the star crown'd highlands where My Presto.

7

I...da's foot-steps roam:

Oh! for a fal-cons' wing to bear to bear me onward to my home!

Oh! for a fal-cons' wing to bear to bear me onward to my home! To bear me onward to my home To bear me onward to my home.
