Engraved by James Parker

*Ah, what avails the beauteous Face,
Or what th' recalled form of Grace,
That charm the world, and Life adorn?
The Tempest, that impetuous blows,
Rocks from its bed the tender Rose,
But scarcely moves the rugged Thorn!*

*Oh! if the Muse, who saw thee fade,
Can soothe, with artless song thy shade,
Her feeble voice shall incense thy doom:
But, lo, too late she pours her lays;
The rite, already Pity prays,

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE Conductors of this Publication return their most grateful thanks to the very numerous and respectable List of Subscribers who have honoured it with their patronage. To those Friends of the deceased Parents, who generously stepped forward with pecuniary aid, for the education of the orphan Children, before the present Publication was projected, they have been anxious to express their acknowledgments by inserting their names among the Subscribers, and (excepting in some instances where it has been forbidden) affixing to each name a number of copies proportionate to the amount of their donations. Of the early Subscribers they have much indulgence to crave, on the score of delay ; but they trust that all those whose principal object was to aid the benevolent purpose of the Work, will forgive them for not sooner closing a Subscription which was increasing to the very moment of publication. They have to crave indulgence also for any errors or omissions which may have occurred in so numerous a List of Subscribers, and particularly for the imperfect manner in which many of them are described, occasioned by the impossibility of procuring their proper address.

With respect to the Work itself, the Airs were all the original productions of the late Mrs. Hodges, composed, without the most distant intention of publication, for the amusement of herself and her friends ; and sung by her, as many of her Subscribers will feel a pleasure mixed with regret in recollecting, with a taste and expression peculiar to herself. The mss. found after her decease, were mere memorandums of the Airs, for her own use. These have been revised and corrected ; the accompaniments added ; and the last air set for voices by the scientific hand of Mr. Hüllmandell, to whose liberality for time and skill bestowed, as well as for a considerable expence incurred, the friends of the orphan family cannot too gratefully express their acknowledgments.

2

Thou great FIRST CAUSE, least understood:
 Who all my fense confin'd
 To know but this, that thou art good,
 And that myself am blind;

3

Yet gave me, in this dark estate,
 To see the good from ill;
 And binding Nature fast in Fate,
 Left free the human will.

4

What Conscience dictates to be done,
 Or warns me not to do,
 This, teach me more than hell to shun,
 That, more than heav'n pursue.

5

What blessings thy free bounty gives,
 Let me not cast away;
 For God is paid when Man receives,
 T' enjoy is to obey.

6

Yet not to earth's contracted span
 Thy goodness let me bound,
 Or think thee Lord alone of Man,
 When thousand worlds are round:

7

Let not this weak unknowing hand
 Presume thy bolts to throw,
 And deal damnation round the land,
 On each I judge thy Foe.

8

If I am right, thy grace impart,
 Still in the right to stay;
 If I am wrong, oh teach my heart
 To find that better way.

9

Save me alike from foolish pride,
 Or impious discontent,
 At aught thy wisdom has deny'd,
 Or aught thy goodness lent.

10

Teach me to feel another's woe,
 To hide the fault I see;
 That mercy I to others shew,
 That mercy shew to me.

11

Mean though I am, not wholly so,
 Since quicken'd by thy breath;
 Oh lead me wheresoe'er I go,
 Through this day's life or death.

12

This day, be bread and peace my lot:
 All else beneath the sun,
 Thou know'st if best bestow'd or not,
 And let thy will be done.

13

To thee, whose Temple is all space,
 Whose Altar, earth, sea, skies!
 One chorus let all being raise!
 All Nature's incense rise!
