About the Composer

"Die Meistersinger" of Richard Wagner (1813-83) received its premiere in 1868 in Munich, under the patronage of King Ludwig of Bavaria. It was completed at approximately the same time as Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine" (completed posthumously in 1865), Verdi's "Don Carlo" (1867) and Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet" (1867). It is often spuriously referred to as a comic opera, most likely because it has a happy ending and a character (Beckmesser) worth of derision. The length of the opera, however, as well as the often grandiose character of the music, suggests that it is indeed a very serious work.

The Overture (Wagner referred to it as a Prelude) is most famous for its liberal and ingenious use of counterpoint. There is one section toward the conclusion where he combines all three principal themes and a running line in the middle strings into an incredibly rich four-part texture reminiscent of a Bach Cantata. Historians have surmised that this was a direct response to the influential Viennese critic Edward Hanslick, who despised Wagner's music and often accused him of having only rudimentary musical skills. In fact, the original score had the character Beckmesser, an amateur musician with no inspiration or discernible musical qualities, labeled as Hanslick. Obviously, Wagner proved the critic incorrect in the composition of this musical masterpiece.

Notes for this arrangement

1. Performance- These works are designed to add to the performance repertoire of the low brass choir.
2. Clef reading- These arrangements will hopefully also serve as advanced clef practice for trombonists playing the top parts. It is unfortunate that clef reading skills don't seem to be a priority for many contemporary trombone teachers, but the ability to transpose at sight remains a prerequisite for becoming an excellent professional musician. Please keep in mind that the first time one has to ask a conductor for a transposed part is likely the last time one will perform with that ensemble!
3. Scoring- There is some octave displacement to keep the individual parts within the comfortable range of the performing instruments and to establish the alto trombone as the highest voice.
4. Range- The basic range of these transcriptions is from high D to low B. For each of the three quartets, the ideal mix would be alto, .525 bore tenor, .547 bore tenor and bass trombone.
5. Breathing and Articulation- There are no breath marks in these transcriptions; that is perhaps the most personal decision a brass player ever makes. There are, however, notes left out in extended passages that would be otherwise impossible to perform well, hopefully in the most appropriate locations. Performers are also encouraged to add slurs whenever it is deemed appropriate.
